

Can You Magnify Your Health with the World's First Pulsed Magnetic Feedback (PMF) Device?

YES, YOU SCAN!

If you've ever watched Star Trek, you know it takes place in a fictional universe two or three centuries into the future.

On the Starship Enterprise, medical technology is far more sophisticated and advanced than in today's world. You may recall a multifunctional hand-held device called a medical tricorder. Well, it didn't take two or three centuries for this technological dream to come true – at least in this galaxy.

NES technology caught up in just 12 years, and it's not fiction. Here is the true story of a vision that began in a sickbed, and now detects and corrects wellness anytime, anywhere.

Harry Massey founder of NES Health

Twelve years ago, Harry had a dream: to create a Home Wellness System that people who were bedridden (as he was with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) could use to find out what was wrong with them, provide information and tools to become well again.

Sometimes it takes years, or even centuries, for all the pieces of the puzzle to fall into place and turn a dream into reality.

To design a Home WellNES System that anyone could use, Harry first needed to establish a network of dedicated, well-educated practitioners in bioenergetics and also invent the technology to make it happen.

They say curiosity killed the cat.

We say it made him better.

Harry invented a way to detect and correct the human body-field, getting himself well and giving you PMF Power to improve your health from the comfort of your own home.

SCIENCE FICTION

Star Trek's TriCorder* - the multifunction hand-held device used for sensor scanning, data analysis, and recording data.

SCIENCE FACT

NES Health's hand-held PMF device helps detect and correct energy blockages in the human body-field.

Read on to learn about this ground-breaking technology, and how it can revolutionise your health and wellbeing.

*image source courtesy of Daniel Botham, of Raspberry Pi Projects pinterest.com

"I have incredible devices in my clinic, but I am especially excited about the miHealth. It's amazing."

Dr. Filomena Trindade

Healing IS Voltage

Do you ever use the expression 'recharging your batteries' to talk about getting more rest?

You instinctively know that you'll be healthier when you give your body the rest it needs to heal itself.

But in addition to the essential elements you already know about, including food, water, sunlight, oxygen, sleep and exercise there is one element you may not have considered: the earth's PMFs (Pulsed Magnetic Fields).

You see, at an energetic level, our cells act as battery-driven miniature pumps. They require food for fuel, oxygen for combustion and magnetism to drive the process.

Enough magnetic energy is normally provided by the earth's energy fields; however, in modern life we become disconnected to the earth and our 'human battery' becomes low and so we need to recharge it.

Healing is simply a matter of charging up the depleted cells to their optimal voltage so they can do their work.

The miHealth device is able to detect which parts of the body have depleted cells and then literally 'jump-starts' the healing process in the right place in your body by providing enough magnetic energy at the cellular level.

Ever Wonder Why There's No Heart Cancer?

The reason there is no heart cancer is that the heart cells have the highest voltage of any cells in the body.

As amazing as it may sound, the energy field of your body extends outwards for up to 15 feet (measurable by science) and operates primarily at frequencies matching the earth's.

Non-invasive magnetic pulses create small electrical signals in the tissue to enhance cellular repair. Clinical trials and other controlled studies have been conducted by physiotherapists, rheumatologists, neurologists, pain specialists and others showing the effectiveness of magnetic pulses, especially in healing soft-tissue injury, reducing inflammation at the cell level, encouraging bone growth and alleviating pain.

Your health relies on the continuous and balanced exchange of energy in your body. Every function of your body is interrelated and works in harmony with other functions – that is, until stress, injury or disease disrupts that communication.

Luckily, the body is a magnificent mechanism. When it has enough voltage and functions optimally, it has the innate intelligence to trigger its own powerful, often immediate, improvement.

Some batteries you toss away. Fortunately the miHealth can identify where to recharge the batteries in your body.

If Your Batteries are Running Low...
Now There's a Solution:
The World's First PULSED
MAGNETIC FEEDBACK (PMF) TECHNOLOGY...

The miHealth is the world's first device that helps you to train your body in the right place through feeding your cells magnetic energy. We call this Pulsed Magnetic Feedback (PMF).

The miHealth biofeedback device works by sending an extremely low, non-invasive current signal on the surface of the skin to different parts of the body. Then, audibly, visually and magnetically it lets the body know how it's responding physiologically.

By putting energy back into the specific area at issue the miHealth can then raise the electrical potential of those cells, restoring them over time to their normal, optimal functioning. This also stimulates the nervous system, sending a signal to the brain to direct resources to that particular part of the body as part of the natural healing response.

Pulsed Magnetic Feedback is known to help reduce stress and re-educate parts of your body and mind to create healthier patterns which can lead to a better quality of life.

The goal is to get your cellular and body's energy flow back to operating with maximum efficiency; because the body can easily get trained into 'patterns' where the energy becomes sluggish or stuck, rejuvenating your body's energy flow is critical to releasing stuck patterns. By rejuvenating your body's energy systems, your body's own innate intelligence takes over.

"PMF is a benefit for mankind from infant to the geriatric. PMF will lead to a change in the paradigm of medicine."

Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize Winner

Tap Into the Benefits of Magnetic Feedback:

- Regenerate and rejuvenate
- Support the body's inherent improvement abilities
- Reduces stress
- Improves sleep
- Give the body more energy and vitality
- And more!

How the NES miHealth works

The NES miHealth scans the human body-field to identify energetic blockages.

The energetic blockages can be cleared and trigger point stimulated either directly on the body or...

Therapy can be delivered off-body in broadcast mode with the same effect.

"When I'm training and racing 14's, I'm often out on the water 8 hours at a time and can't afford downtime. The miHealth helps me to stay and perform at my best."
 Archie Massey, Sailing
 Quadruple World
 Champion (2011 to 2013)

From Oz to NASA, The World's Top Scientists Agree: Pulsed Magnetism is the Real Thing!

Pulsed Magnetism is so effective that it was recently featured on the Dr. Oz Show. Dr. Oz urged all his viewers to demand this therapy from their doctors, who for the most part still don't know about it.

And, let's face it, when it comes to research studies it doesn't get much better than NASA. They discovered that the benefits include improved tissue (specifically nerve cells), greater cell energy and longevity, accelerated cell growth, improved cellular voltage, cell restoration and growth, and much more.

Feedback on our Feedback

We recently conducted a large miHealth study on 251 subjects. Results showed that 88% of the participants benefitted from the NES miHealth at the initial consultation.

The second and third therapy sessions compounded the positive effect of increased wellness. More than 60% experienced reduced symptoms, and after the second therapy session, 93% reported a significant improvement in their condition. 85% of people with chronic conditions reported an immediate positive effect from the therapy.

"The device you can't live without!"
 THE DOCTORS SHOW

Awarded "Best Alternative Product"
 CAM Magazine

Get well and stay well. It's easy when you have your very own miHealth.

Yes, you scan: The Debut of Home Sweet Home Scanning

You've heard the famous words, 'Yes we can!'

Now this takes on new meaning with a twist: Yes you can... scan —from the comfort of your own home!

With the miHealth device, you are no longer confined to your practitioner's four walls. You can begin your wellNES journey now, right in your home.

Once you purchase the miHealth device, you simply sync up and send information from your scan to an expert practitioner.

They will assess your Pulsed Magnetic Feedback sessions, and then personally tailor a programme and recommendations for you.

"I was scanned by a practitioner whilst on a training course for another therapy I practise. A look at my scan was enough for me to leave the class a day early and order a NES device immediately. I bought it just one week later!"

Lorraine Whitby, NES Practitioner

Visit
www.mihealth.me
 to order now!

